The Inside-Out approach is guided by the belief that the inner strengths and capabilities of the organisation will produce a sustainable future. The Outside-In approach is instead guided by the belief that customer value creation is the key to success. As a passionate Customer Insight Strategist I tend to prefer the Outside-in approach to business looking at your customers' latent/hidden needs and translate them into solutions that will serve them.

Inside-out Versus Outside-in - What's the Better Strategy?

Inside Out and Outside In is a well-written and conceptually sound book that uses social work examples for treatment and pays close attention to diverse practice populations in a sensitive, culturally-competent manner. Students will find the book accessible and engaging. (Susanne Bennett, Catholic University of America)

Inside Out vs Outside In Marketing - Chris Lema

In the world of customer experience, what's the difference between outside-in and inside-out? Inside-out thinking means your focus is on processes, systems, tools, and products that are designed and implemented based on internal thinking and intuition. The customer's needs, jobs, and perspectives do not play a part in this type of thinking; they aren't taken into consideration.

Outside-In vs. Inside-Out Thinking | CustomerThink

The outside-in strategy starts at the end and works backward by looking at what the customer wants and coming up with solutions from that viewpoint. Alternatively, the inside-out strategy develops a product or service and then looks to find ways to create a desire for it.

Inside-Out Strategy VS. Outside-In Strategy: Which ...

Where does your business sit on the continuum? Are you utilising an Inside Out or an Outside In brand strategy? Outside In. The Outside In strategy takes customer value as its starting and end point. Companies using this approach are focused on creating and nurturing their customers by providing high calibre customer value.
